Dear Ms. Gibson,

I am writing to inquire about the video producer job opportunity available at Human Rights Watch. I am interested in joining your team to help contribute to the creative process of producing media for your clients. Enclosed is my resume, which talks about the multiple skills I can offer within the area of media communications.

Incorporating value within a production or design is highly essential in building a client to customer based relationship. I plan on creating value added content and using emotion to effectively convey the clients' message to their respective demographic. I am experienced as an associate producer, set manager and photographer. I have constantly worked around production environments and helped develop video portraits, trailers, webisodes and shorts. My goal is to bring revolutionary, positive change through the media I create.

I have a growing passion for production and I additionally rely on my abilities as a media strategist, content developer and graphic/web designer. It would be a wonderful opportunity to collaborate and create with/for Human Rights Watch. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Martin Paul
